James Sherlock (Piano)

James Sherlock studied the piano and organ at Chetham's School of Music and Eton College, and later as an organ scholar at Winchester Cathedral and Trinity College, Cambridge. He graduated from Cambridge University in 2007 and has since been pursuing further research into music and autism whilst continuing his piano studies with Joan Havill, Senior Professor at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama.

He was a winner of 2007's BBC Fame Academy: The Next Generation as pianist and conductor, and took gold medal in the Marcello Galanti

International Organ Competition in 2005. His recent CD of chamber music by David Earl on the Divine Art label won the new music "disk of the year" award in International Piano Magazine. He has performed at the festivals of Windsor, Cambridge, Ravenna, La Verna, Olomouc, on BBC Radio 2, 3 and 4.

He is delighted to be part of the Live Music Now scheme, the largest outreach group of its kind in the UK. He is also organist of St Bartholomew the Great in Smithfield, and musical director of the Figaro Opera Project
